Attention !!! New CICS user group

- How many times have you come away from a conference or a presentation and thought WOW that was really useful?
- How often have you had to fight to justify attending meetings with other professionals?
- How often have you struggled to build a business case including costs, your time off work, the cost of staff to cover your absence, travel costs, hotel fees, etc.....?
- How many times has a useful snippet of information from a speaker been really useful to you at your site ?

Wouldn't it be great if there was a way to attend highly professional technically-oriented seminars or presentations without having to leave your company's offices – without, perhaps, even having to leave your desk?

Great news!!! Now you can! By signing up at the fantastic all-new Virtual CICS user group at www.virtualcics.com. A single place where you can go to find out a little bit about:

- CICS product announcements including links to more detailed information
- A list of CICS tools with a brief summary of each product
- All newly published articles about CICS (zJournal & IBM Systems Magazine)
- CICS service providers
- Much more.....

Every other month the site will feature a webinar using Citrix GoToMeeting. You can interact with other members of the user group and listen to the latest presentation by an acknowledged CICS expert – all from your desk.

In months when there is no webinar, a newsletter will be sent to all members keeping them up-to-date with the latest news.

Can you believe membership in the user group is FREE! Just sign up at www.virtualcics.com.

If you're a CICS professional, then this user group is specifically tailored for you.

We look forward to welcoming all CICS professionals to this informative user group.

Thank You,
Circle Software Staff
